used as a "data mining" program by searching through the entire file system for hidden messages and steganographic data. The program will find hidden messages in both files and folders. KEYMACRO Description: The program is a steganographic program, which hides messages in steganographic embeddings and cover media. It can also be used to search through the entire file system for hidden messages and steganographic data. The program hides messages in steganographic embeddings. A message can be encrypted, compressed, encoded, or steganographically hidden. The program also has the ability to hide files and folders. 3) Steganographic Encoder: The Steganographic Encoder was created by D.M., and is designed to be used to encode and store messages in steganographic data, and to send messages to its receiver. The steganographic data is sent in embedded form to its receiver, and is not visible in the file. The program is designed to automatically and efficiently encode any data string. The program also has the ability to encode files and folders as well. The encoding process can be hidden by the user or automatically concealed. KEYMACRO Description: The steganographic encoder is a program designed to send encoded data to its receiver. The data is sent in embedded form, and is not visible in the file. The program automatically encodes data and can automatically hide messages. 4) The Steganographic Decoder: The Steganographic Decoder was created by D.M., and is designed to be used to decode and display hidden messages and steganographic data. The decoder is also useful in searching through the entire file system for hidden messages and steganographic data. The dec 77a5ca646e
