Until now, Transferring data from Excel to QuickBooks without too much trouble has been possible if you are not tied to the online version of the software. In this case, you can access to this data through the QuickBooks Desktop; and Excel, you can also export the data from here. However, Microsoft provides its customers another option: the online version of the software. This software provides the user with a web service which allows to easily transfer the data from Excel to the Microsoft servers. This is much better than having to download and re-import the data. This is why there are plenty of tools that were developed to facilitate this process. One of these tools is known as the XF Transfer for Intuit. It is compatible with the versions Intuit QuickBooks Pro and Intuit QuickBooks Premier. The application allows the user to easily transfer the data without needing to log in with any of the QuickBooks Online accounts. The interface of the application is very intuitive: the user just needs to define the filters to be used and select the data to be transferred. The application has been built with a help of simplicity in mind. This is why all the actions can be easily performed using the mouse only. The list of the objects that can be transferred is limited but it is always increasing. To date, the application provides support for the following file types: Csv CSV Edifact Intuit Edifact Invoice Invoice Only Invoice Online
