Gameplay has been enhanced with contextual animations: for example, a running player is more likely to be tackled from behind and have their movement stiffened by the opposition, while a player in possession of the ball is more likely to receive a throw-in and more likely to have their possession threatened, requiring the goalkeeper to dive and stop the ball. The pre-determined animations, as well as the player's physical appearance, will also be more like how they look in real life. The main focus of the game is on pure ball skills and passing accuracy. Teamwork has been improved with more and more players working together in defence and attack. This was the basis of the game from the start of the 2013/14 season and is integral to the latest FIFA. FIFA 22 introduces World Class Team Coach, which is the world's first game to combine the learnings of Jose Mourinho, Pep Guardiola, Louis van Gaal and a vast amount of football wisdom with the lessons of FIFA Ultimate Team. Players can now use the Pitch Action function to manipulate the game in their favour and drive their team's chances towards the net. The Pitch Action function is based on FIFA 22's contextual animations, so if a player wins an aerial challenge, not only is the ball automatically placed in his or her path, but the player then has an increased chance of scoring due to having more time to manage the ball and create a chance for an on-the-pitch teammate. FIFA 22 introduces AI Moments, which brings the majesty of football to life by realistically simulating several previously unseen moments of goalmouth excitement from different styles of football. These moments are triggered by players from the opposing team making run-ins to the edge of the penalty area. Players are then forced to make the most important decision of their career: do they time their run-in with a goal-bound cross to the goalkeeper, or attempt to intercept the incoming cross. Depending on the style of football, the moment can be 'end of the world' tense, or calm and collected. The AI's decision is then analysed using the "moment engine", which has been enhanced to bring this variety of goalmouth moments to life. FIFA 22 also introduces the new "Razor" passing system, which allows players to create more precise passing combinations. This new passing system is completely re-worked for FIFA 22 and allows players to
