Project Summary/Abstract Muscular dystrophies are a group of genetic disorders affecting skeletal muscle. Duchenne Muscular Dystrophy (DMD) is the most prevalent of the muscular dystrophies and is caused by mutations in the dystrophin gene. DMD is a recessive disease, but there is a lack of effective treatment. Recent gene therapies have demonstrated the ability to ameliorate dystrophic symptoms in animal models. This study will take advantage of the large animal model for DMD we have developed by targeting dystrophin exon 51 deletion mutations. We will treat animals with a novel AAV-8 based vector containing a myocyte enhancer factor 2C (MEF2C) driven neomycin resistance (NeoR) cassette and then select and isolate populations of cells that remain following removal of the selecting agent. The cells that will be isolated for this study are predominately myogenic. This study will also take advantage of the miniaturized, well-characterized, animal-ready, and highly-amenable POC-scale pre-clinical vector (PRP) generated by this study. PRP's have fewer vector genomes, permit efficient cassette expression without vector genome loss, and are amenable to the high-throughput production required to achieve clinical scale vector production. We will select the best vector for our DMD model in terms of AAV genome stability and expression. We will then establish vectors with 1000X higher titers and 5X lower genome load. We will also assess vector expression in pre-clinical and adult animals. To accomplish this task, we will isolate cells from dystrophic muscle of mini pigs and test the capacity of these cells to be transduced with both efficacious and well-tolerated vectors. Through the use of DMD- targeted vectors, we will demonstrate the potential for long-term persistence of transduced cells in vivo. The generation and testing of these vectors will form the basis of a full IND enabling IND filing and will set the stage for the generation of therapy for DMD patients. Facebook apparently didn't count the young man who posted a video to Snapchat of himself taking off his underwear and holding a sign that said "Some of my most embarrassing moments occurred while wearing a (Bra)." The San Francisco native got a lot of laughs and a lot of "what the...?" comments as he held the sign and took off his shirt, on display while walking down the street. He

Misc Usually Hidemi supplies me just a small "stock" head, usually with about 6 hair cords. If I want more, I ask her to order more from back stock, or I ask her to get a bigger stock from her supplier. On that note, she is usually very receptive to getting a bigger or smaller stock from the customer, though there are some things that she will not ship. Usually, like an order of large buttons, or a very large stock of hair cords. So that means you can ask her for anything, and you will receive it, in a timely manner. If you have any questions about the picture, please feel free to ask them, and I will answer promptly. Misc The picture is a stock image, which are usually "digital photographs" of actual items from a model's stock. Models are all from India, Japan, and the Philippines. They are usually quite beautiful girls, though depending on my mood, I may end up with an Indonesian model once in a while. Usually, all "industrial" pictures are done on black backgrounds, some "Dream" pictures may be done on white backgrounds. Just asking. You can always tell if the picture has been previously made or not, by a very faint copyright/license notice by the model. List of FC Ajax (women) seasons Facing a stuttering start in the 1963-64 and 1966-67 season, the women's football section of Ajax FC is starting to take shape, albeit playing in the second tier Hoofdklasse (now called the KNVB Women's Eredivisie for sponsorship reasons, with some of the matches often being referred to as "Ajax's"). The women's team was previously known as Jong Ajax. The club had its first successes in the 1985-86 season, with the women's team finishing the first tier Eredivisie as champions. They were soon invited to join the newly founded UEFA Women's Cup, the first woman's football team to do so. However, the following season their tournament berth was taken by the women's professional soccer team of the Umeå IK, a team who had been crowned champs in the previous season of the Swedish women's football championship. In the 1986-87 season, the Ajax women's football section
