A spin-flop phase transition in the magnetic phase of the organic charge-transfer salt (TMTTF)2PF6 determined by magnetometry. We have studied the magnetic properties of the quasi-1D organic charge-transfer salt (TMTTF)2PF6 with magnetic susceptibility measurements in the temperature range 1.8-300 K and in the magnetic field range 0-4 T. We have found a discontinuous jump of magnetic susceptibility towards the ordered magnetization at around 50 K with a concomitant phase transition. The linear temperature dependence of this jump is seen to suggest a spin-flop transition from the initial spin-nonmagnetic state towards a spin-magnetic state, characterized by spiral spin order and a dimerization of the TMTTF molecules. A significant magnetic contribution of the TMTTF1+ cation at TNew images of Yungen Y, the artist behind Dragon Force and Infernus, have surfaced via his self-run Instagram account. Q: How to use procs in Rails I'm a newbie trying to convert a rails app from ROR2.2 to 3.2 I have this code class BookingsController params[:page], :per_page => 15) #search params..end def create params = build_params #stuff to check.. #book_times = BookTime.where(book_id: params[:book_id]) #.. #@book_time = BookTime.create(params[:book_time]) #.. #if @book_time.save # flash[:notice] = "Booked" # redirect_to root_path #else # render 'new' #end end def new @booking = Booking.new @rooms = Room.all end The old ror way worked but it requires me to create custom model methods for all of the methods listed above. This seems like a waste of time. I was told to use Procs What is the best way to do this? I'm still learning and I don't know the difference between a proc and a method. A: Basically, the difference between methods and procs in rails is that methods work on instances, and procs work on class level variables. So you should be able to rewrite your methods into procs pretty easily, or even just change all instances of Booking.new to Booking.new. Take this example: class FakeBooking def some_method # do something end end # re-write this: class FakeBooking def some_method "This is a fake
