Q: Is one of Spivak's 3 laws the analogous of the sequential continuity of Hausdorff's dimension? The book Introduction to Calculus and Analysis by Spivak has a weird statement, that seems to relate to the statement about the continuity of Hausdorff's dimension: For any metric space  $S$ , we define  $D_H(S)$  to be the supremum of the numbers  $D$  such that there is a  $D$ -dimensional Hausdorff manifold included in  $S$ . As the book says, the statement given above is not difficult to prove. However, it seems that this result (which I gather to be a consequence of the result above) is a corollary of Spivak's 3 laws, and is not an immediate consequence of the first Law. Is there any truth to this? A: Well, yes, actually the three laws appear to be a sort of measure-theoretical analogue of Hausdorff's sequential continuity, which is a really important property in topology and differentiable manifolds.
